

Dang!

What It Means to Be a Golden Eagle

September 21, 2009 8:54 AM | Permalink

According to my edition of The Drawl, our first President, Joe Cook, had a personal motto, Get there on time and stay to the end, which pretty much became the campus slogan during his tenure. Nearly a century later, it was gratifying to see our students embodying that behavior at Saturday's game. They came early, they stayed until the end, and they cheered the team on to victory.

I think Daddy Cook would have been pleased.

Are things this bad, Martha? As previous reports have indicated, the worse the news, the more innocuous your blog updates are. Therefore, based on the above: dang! How about discussing some of those budgetary items?